There may be a nest or two in the hedgerow; look at it but do not touch it. Some of these are poisonous.

Commemorative Plaques

Try and spot the difference.

Cathcart Castle

Now look at the hedgerow beech at the roadside boundary of the park.

River Birds

The trees on the left have an unusual bark.

Pilot paralysed after crash

My grandparents live in the area and my husband and I both have easily relocatable careers, and as they're getting older and charmingly loonier we'd really like to be closer to them while also starting a new adventure together.

Linn Park Nature Trail [as in the 1960's]

. You could find out where, and why it has been built there.

Hello from Alberta! : SaultSteMarie

Cathcart House was built around 1740 but was demolished in 1927 after Glasgow Corporation had acquired the estate.

Snuff Mill Bridge

Yet the park is not an untouched paradise. A blue tit has a black crown. How long did this carpet take to build up? The Cathcart Heritage Trail plaque is set into the wall on the wall at the bottom of the steps.
