The young architect was sent to Kingstown, Jamaica, in a rapid decline, and died after landing in a few weeks.

Reminiscences With Professor Mohammed Kabir

A truer friend to the South, a cooler or braver man than Lieutenant Stevens never lived, though there were not wanting newspaper editors and other bombproof critics to defame him as a coward and traitor. None of the houses had through ventilation, as they were all back-to-back houses, and the only air they received was obtained from this narrow eight feet weU-hole.
