Once faculty put their course material online, moreover, the knowledge and course design skill embodied in that material is taken out of their possession, transferred to the machinery and placed in the hands of the administration.

Review: Digital Diploma Mills

Senate report on diploma mills, Senator Susan Collins remarked that diploma mills are unfair to potential employers, whether in the public or private sector, who might assume that a bogus degree actually reflects mastery of materials needed to perform a particular job 37. Education may be all about making money for some and even many people today, but it is not for me. This paper focuses on two questions: 1 What aspects have not been completely satisfactory in the transit and transformation that education has undergone, from its more traditional, campus-based conception, towards its new configuration marked by the continuous use of digital technologies and environments?
