Professional Training for Therapists

However, the patient would have to show that a reasonable person in the patient's position would not have consented to the treatment or specific technique if he or she has been properly informed, and that the treatment was the legal cause of the patient harm.

Ethics in Clinical Practice

Should these Procedures be inconsistent with the Peer Review Fair Hearing Procedures commencing with Section 809 of the Business and Professions Code, the provisions of the Business and Profession Code shall prevail.

Although most would agree that child abuse is appalling, there are many disagreements as to what actions should be taken to protect children who have been victimized and are at risk for further abuse. The psychologist who engages in such activities after the two years following cessation or termination bears the burden of demonstrating that there has been no exploitation, in light of all relevant factors, including 1 amount of time that has passed since therapy terminated, 2 the nature and duration of the therapy, 3 the circumstances of termination, 4 the patients or clients personal history, 5 the patients or clients current mental status, 6 the likelihood of adverse impact on the patient or client and others, and 7 any statements or actions made by the therapist during the course of therapy suggesting or inviting the possibility of a posttermination sexual or romantic relationship with the patient or client. Licensed professionals, including LMFTs, are not permitted in California to form an L.

Whatever you decide, be clear about the limits of your availability for all of your patients. It is not for the therapist to decide this however. When ethical dilemmas arise, seek counsel from colleagues and the state licensing board.

ADVERTISING Marriage and family therapists who advertise do so appropriately and recognize that advertising in all of its forms, enables consumers to choose professional services based upon accurate information.

Do counselors have to follow ethical codes?

In my experience not much is done with the Judicial Counsel regarding Judges or the State Bar regarding attorneys, but the Board of Psychology and BBS in California are much stricter and do take action if enough true victims complain. Therapists should view informed consent as a continuing obligation.

The more narrowly defined statutes, such as the latter standard, result in under-reporting whereas the more broadly defined laws, i. Turns out there may well be a time when a mental health professional needs to follow the standards of a code of ethics even if they chose to not belong to the professional organization. From The Tarasoff v California Board of Regents ruling 1976 established the professional's duty to warn or protect.
