As others saw us

At this pass the river fills the vale, but it widens by degrees, and presents various reaches, intermixed with little tufts of trees. The insults which the people heap on the few who profit by these advantages are sufficient to disgust those whose conscience would allow them to place their temporal interests before all other considerations. They hopped off and were next seen in the well.

The Last County

Then, around the centre of the map, you can see the straight line of the third section of the navigation, the Plassey—Errina Canal, heading north-eastward away from the river.

SWEATHOUSES

The scene is not only beautiful in those common circumstances which form a landscape, but is alive with the cheerfulness of ships and boats perpetually moving. Forty pounds of potatoes might be cooked at once over the fire, the bread baked once or twice a day, the family fed in sittings - the woman serving herself last.

I wish I was in the land of bog cotton

Passed to Wicklow, prettily situated on the sea, and from Newrybridge walked to see Mr. The Irish Catholic Bishops 1886 37.

A Frenchman's walk through Ireland, 1796

The library is a most elegant apartment of about forty by thirty, and of such a height as to form a pleasing proportion; the light is well managed, coming in from the cove of the ceiling, and has an exceeding good effect; at one end is a pretty ante-room, with a fine copy of the Venus de Medicis, and at the other two small rooms, one a cabinet of pictures and antiquities, the other medals. He joined Michigan State University as Associate Professor 1945-1948 , then moved to 28Arensberg was awarded the Sheldon Fellowship for study and travel in Europe for the period

1931-1932. I will continue to seek evidence and would welcome further information.

Indigenous Narratives of Health: (Re)Placing Folk

Whitestone, Sleater, Sheppard, Williams, Burnet, Wilson Jenkin, Wogan, Vallance, White, Beatty, Bym, and Burton, 1780. The path of the road is worn by torrents into a channel, which is blocked up in places by huge fragments, so that it would be a horrid road on a level; but on a hill so steep, that the best path would be difficult to ascend it may be supposed terrible: the labourers, two passing strangers, and my servant, could with difficulty get the chaise up. As time passed, possibly the general research purpose no longer cohered or made as much sense as was the case initially.
