George Farquhar (priest)

George Farquhar 1880-1975 was born in England and came to Nova Scotia as a child, growing up in Newport, Hants County. When critics of Irish literature do engage with his work, it is often to praise the first two plays Love and a Bottle and The Constant Couple for their perceived Irishness, and to worry over the sectarian portrayals of Irish Catholics — and Catholics in general — in his last three and best-known plays The Twin Rivals, The Recruiting Officer and The Beaux Strategem.

1707 stage comedy by George Farquhar

His father was a Church of Ireland minister, and, according to legend, young George fought for King William at the Battle of the Boyne, was inside the walls during the Siege of Derry, and had his childhood home burned down by Catholic rebels.

George Farquhar (priest)

This is the first study to treat Farquhar's works as documents of migration and the fragmented identity that resulted. Farquhar was received as a Priest of the church would be.

George Farquhar (priest)

Farquhar was granted permission to use the school Chapel as well as the main Cathedral for services by the Archbishop. Other roles he occupied in life were a member of the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities and President of the Nova Scotia Historical Society. This was amid the Russian Civil War, so the country was in massive turmoil.
