Adventures at home for young people

As travel enthusiasts, entrepreneurs, authors and influencers, the Brownies have inspired others to invest in going beyond borders to create unforgettable experiences. First, we had to carefully roll out a lump of clay to a good-sized thickness, then cut out a circular base for the medallion using a cutter.

New Brownie Adventures

Knot-tying can be incorporated into regular weekly meetings, and is a great on-the-spot camping activity for rainy days. Each section gives the syllabus for the badge, and some activities to try. After gathering outside in a traffic-free Queen Street an advantage of the tram works! The dues pouches were inspired by the belt pouches we had when I was a girls but the ones we made were much smaller.

Our first week we started with the Reef Knot and the Cow Hitch. On Saturday evening, we had an indoor campfire due to the wet weather — Brownies from all the different units came up with interesting performances and everyone sung loudly to drown out the rain on the road. On Sunday the weather was much better — just as well as after lunch there were water activities and get wet challenges, which went down well in the sunshine.

Part of our is to try at least two new sporting activities each so this week at Brownies we swapped halls with the Guides to give us a bit more space and invited along Gordon from to teach us a few moves! The great thing is that once purchased and prepared, your unit will have the materials for years! Massive thanks to Gordon for delivering a fantastic session, and to our special guest Catriona for coming along to help. In two groups, we were shown round a few of the main galleries — particularly focusing on images of well-known people and what features help us recognise them in different portrayals.
