EMPOWERING THE SMALLHOLDER COMMUNITIES IN SUSTAINABLE Watershed Management for Rehabilitation of Degraded Arid Rangelands

What has been happening to inequality? The decline phase is made up of older people with households where sons and daughters, now grown, have fissioned out.

The State and Agrarian Change in Zimbabwe's Communal Areas

Declining tree stocks in African countries. They are thus unable to grasp and utilize the essential dynamics of gender, age, conjugal form, and other internal features which are in constant interaction within and between different households at different phases of the cycle. To further the development of education, encourage the full application of their knowledge.

The State and Agrarian Change in Zimbabwe's Communal Areas

Most of these countries are now under intense pressure from the International Monetary Fund and western donor agencies and countries to shift their development emphasis away from the poverty-focused and equity models on to so-called growth-oriented programs. Throughout these countries the current major policy concern, however, relates to the possibilities for production increases.

Robert Chambers 1983 contends that rural development can be redefined to include enabling poor rural people to demand and control more of the benefits of development. His primary duty is to observe the laws of the country. Link grassroots groups to local authorities, provide technical assistance to member groups.

Knowledges, fuelwood and environmental management in Kisumu district, Kenya

Mineral resources Series and maps on minerals and deposits are compiled to promote exploitation of such minerals. Household participation levels per cluster average 59%. This point and the fact that cyclical drought is a major constraint are clear indication that a much longer-term outlook is called for to evaluate the permanence of the country's apparently impressive agricultural performance so far.
