reality is, however, that while statistical patterns may develop, human decision-making precludes any of these patterns from revealing invariant natural laws. But Jesus prayed that we would all be one, and if we're to finish the task before us, we must build bridges of understanding and cooperation with all segments of the Christian community--especially our brothers with whom we have so much in common yet from whom we are mostly estranged.

Practical Theology: Definition, Viewpoints, Why It Matters

Human and Faith Development This course provides students with an introduction to the concept of faith development theory and the impact of age and maturity on the moral and spiritual life. The theologian does not reason a priori, but listens to revelation and searches the wise ways God has freely chosen in his plan of love. Such a view is not only opposed to the evangelical tradition; it also dangerously diminishes the value of ordered thinking around truth in a relativistic age, and leaves those in ministry underdeveloped and doctrinally blunt.
