Poverty and its Effects on Children

Teachers also have to admit honestly about their own cultural competency and commitment to work with students of color. Concomitantly, parents in low-income segregated neighborhoods have fewer social and financial resources to create buffers against difficult surrounding conditions.

School Health Guidelines to Promote Healthy Eating and Physical Activity

What they need is more reading specialists. Cecelia—have you gone in and observed teachers behaving this way or is this word of mouth? All children should be routinely screened for such experiences.

New Roles in Education: Family School Collaboration Specialist

Strive to create a classroom environment where every child feels valued and understood. Family- school relationships are an ongoing process.

Roles of the Reading Specialist

Toxic stress may not be the only or even the most powerful reason that achievement declines because of frightening or threatening events. When parents ask questions, they want prompt and quick response from teachers. Use the handout, Useful Resources for Families and Professionals to learn more about ways to support families of children with special needs.
