I hate to be defended in a newspaper. They are immensely valuable as an articulation of that faith, even though the ultimate incoherence of his views makes satisfactory exposition difficult. But his critics were also responding to the orthodox of New England's Standing Order churches, who accused the Unitarians of little by little abandoning Christianity.

Who can doubt that poetry will revive and lead in a new age, as the star in the constellation Harp, which now flames in our zenith, astronomers announce, shall one day be the pole-star for a thousand years? I call our system a system of despair, and I find all the correction, all the revolution that is needed and that the best spirits of this age promise, in one word, in Hope. Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1982. What did the preacher mean by saying that the good are miserable in the present life? Give me health and a day, and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous.
