There are dozens to choose from that can represent different tones, emotions, and experiences for a community.

Hölderlin's Hymn The Ister by Martin Heidegger

As you make happy The hearts of plants When they extend to you Their delicate tendrils, So you make my heart happy, Father Sun, and like Endymion I was your favorite, Holy Moon! Wesley was an English leader of the Methodist movement and wrote an estimated 6,500 hymns in total.

That was amazing, and so I decided to re-read this, and also that I might as well read the whole thing. When choosing funeral hymns, consider which hymns your loved one enjoyed, along with which ones you feel will help you and your family most.

Of Time and the River: Heidegger's Reading of Hölderlin's River Hymns

I have heard You calling in the night I will go, Lord If You lead me I will hold Your people in my heart I, the Lord of wind and flame I will tend the poor and lame I will set a feast for them My hand will save Finest bread I will provide 'Til their hearts be satisfied I will give my life to them Whom shall I send? Music can be a powerful factor when processing grief. Perfect submission, perfect delight, Visions of rapture now burst on my sight; Angels, descending, bring from above Echoes of mercy, whispers of love.

Many funeral attendees find this message helpful and take it to mean that even after a life on earth has ended, their loved one will still love on in the kingdom of the Lord. I agree with keeping the lecture intact with Greek words but for the sake of translation, there should be at least end notes or footnotes on what is the Greek word in question.

An initial typescript had been prepared by Herr Fritz Heidegger at the request of Martin Heidegger, who subsequently helped with the process of collation. It is related to the twilight state between conscious and unconscious experienced as theta waves in drowsy states just before waking or falling asleep or dusk or dawn.
