FACT CHECK: Lincoln and Lee's Views on Slavery

She died a wealthy woman on January 3, 1931, aged 85. Despite intense political and popular pressure, Lincoln spared the lives of many more Dakota fighters than he condemned, albeit not as many as he could have. Tunstall's murder was witnessed from a distance by several of his men, including Richard Brewer and Billy the Kid.

Lincoln Memorial

As the flames spread and night began, Susan McSween and the other woman and five children were granted safe passage out of the house, while the men inside continued to fight the fire. As they came up and reached the platform, they filed right and left, and each one took his position as though they had rehearsed the programme. The painful discipline they are undergoing is necessary for their further instruction as a race, and will prepare them, I hope, for better things.

FACT CHECK: Lincoln and Lee's Views on Slavery

Few believed the story, as they thought it unlikely that Morton would have killed his only friend in the group. The greater part died instantly; some few struggled violently, and one of the ropes broke, and sent its burden with a heavy, dull crash, to the platform beneath. It is also true that Lincoln, as President of the United States, did have the legal authority to commute all 303 death sentences presented to him for his approval.
