If you are the author of this article you do not need to formally request permission to reproduce figures, diagrams etc.

Safety performance measures

However, simplifications are almost always required to reduce the problem to a manageable level. The Mining Program should stay abreast of research in this area and be prepared to conduct intervention research as problems are detected.

Annual reports

The effects of combined exposure to dusts and chemicals on the health of miners and the effects of various combined components of diesel exhaust, particularly as new pollution control equipment changes the chemical characteristics of the exhaust, need to be understood.
