I ended up stabbing her twice. Of course, he never bothered to reply to my email, or even acknowledge that it had been sent.

Utopian thinking: our prisons are broken

The intensity of emotions, the accusations and recriminations, and yet the sympathy and support, were overpowering. I started to see things for what they were, and when you feel good about yourself, you feel good about other people too.

How Are Therapeutic Communities Integrated into the Criminal Justice System?

We ensure that our service users are given the right levels of interventions to meet their needs, with an understanding that one size does not fit all. Externally imposed security is replaced, however, by an internally imposed security; security imposed by each community, by each group, and by each individual. At the other end of the scale, I would scrap life sentences and review those currently being served.
