Industry was established on the village periphery including an oil refinery, but the neighbourhood is no longer a substantial industrial district. A replica of Port Credit's lighthouse was built by the Lions Club of Credit Valley atop a sewage pumping station; it is the home of the local BIA and Tourist Bureau and the logo for many local organizations.

Fort Mississauga

Abigail married Jeremiah Becker in 1947 and the couple would have eight children. She survived the change to a new and foreign culture and way of life in immigrating to Canada.

Fort Mississauga

Hortense became a loyalist heroine. In 1814 to show their respect the Ojibwa gave Elizabeth the deed to Round Island the traditional burial ground of their people.
