Factors of need are grouped into 3 categories: A, B and C and combinations of these factors can affect the priority of your application by deciding which waiting list band your application matches. .

Housing Need (Hansard, 18 July 1996)

For other almshouse charities, this level of care would be offered by social services to individual residents as required. One council suggested that competition must shift from land purchasing to housing delivery in order to improve the design and quality of housing. Bennett —not only in connection with the inquiry, but for the way in which he presides over our proceedings, with tact and humour, sometimes in difficult circumstances.

Defining and measuring housing affordability

Doors may have to be widened. Is assisted living cost effective in comparison to alternative services options offered in each state? The homeless necessarily play a role in my constituency—that is a characteristic of inner-city seats. The check includes information about family and social support, assessment of physical and mental health, sight and hearing tests.

Extending the housing options for older people

Youth workers from multiple different organisations came together and moved beyond traditional organisational boundaries to support young people.

Support and Care

We have a Green Party Minister with overall responsibility for the environment but I have not seen anywhere in the Bill, and I am open to correction on this, any emphasis on a new response in terms of the need for greener energy measures, either through design or density. Some nurses complain that the broad scope of the act places too much responsibility on nurses, and guidelines for delegation would be welcome; however, others believe that professional training and clinical judgement should be exercised.

Defining and measuring housing affordability

The problem is that the local authorities that have the receipts are often not those that need the money to build more housing. One organisation suggested that, while many people prefer to live in mixed, integrated communities, there is also a significant demand for 'retirement blocks', and argued that social housing allocation policy restrictions should be removed to help ensure the viability of a large number of multi-storey blocks in the social housing sector. These have varied purposes and cover different time periods, which may lead to incoherent policymaking.
