COSE

The legal values are 'Yes', 'No', and 'Deprecated'. .

CBOR Object Signing and Encryption (COSE)

The value in the parameter MUST be unique for the pair of keys being used. Two buckets are provided for each layer: protected: Contains parameters about the current layer that are to be cryptographically protected. The content may be detached, but the location is still used.

The second mode is to both check that the content has not been changed since the MAC was computed and to use the recipient algorithm to verify who sent it.

COSE

The CEK is encrypted for each recipient, using a key specific to that recipient. Examples of COSE Signed Messages can be found in.

. If different keys are derived for each sender, using the same Base IV with Partial IVs starting at zero is likely to ensure that the IV would not be used twice for a single key. .

College of Science and Engineering : Texas State University

The third set of recommendations apply to having implicit algorithms for multiple COSE object constructs.
