2. The New Criticism, or Formalism with a Human Face

Like Little Miss Muffet or Goldilocks, Janet appears one-dimensional in her goodness as she kisses mother and daddy, then displays another side of her personality, a childish orneriness toward a brother, an obvious rival. He was the founding editor of the , and continued as editor until his retirement in 1959. Actually one can find some convergence between the New Critical persuasions and some poststructuralist views; it is no wonder that the deconstructive school has been described as a kind of New New Criticism.

Collection: John Crowe Ransom Papers

Ransom makes a clear break with myth in line 33 to ponder the Christian overtones of the lovers' quandary. They have not been trained to criticism so much as they have simply undertaken a job for which no specific qualifications were required. Ransom uses English society as the model for his exegesis of the pioneering origins of culture.

The New Criticism of JC Ransom

So have the critics nearly always been amateurs; including the best ones. And where is the tissue that keeps it from coming out of the poetic object? Unlike most of Ransom's verse, the eight-stanza narrative is a personal statement that recalls his graduate days at Oxford and subsequent return to the United States to write in classical mode.

Contemporary Literary Critics

Behind him are many writers in various tongues from whom he borrows both forms and materials. But so they are supposed to do at present; and I would only ask him whether he considers that criticism prospers under this arrangement. Moving walls are generally represented in years.

New Criticism

He studied at home with his father during his childhood, when the family moved among four parishes. However, their doctrine grew little by little out of fashion beginning with the late 1950s, as the archetypal, psychoanalytical, and mainly structuralist approaches to literature were gaining ground.

JOHN CROWE RANSOM CRITICAL ESSAYS AND A BIBLIOGRAPHY

Naturally they are grateful to the efficient staff of colleagues in the background who have framed the masterpieces, hung them in the proper schools and in the chronological order, and prepared the booklet of information about the artists and the occasions.
