Offers void where prohibited by law. A 2017 study found that the TPP scored high relative to other trade agreements in terms of a government's ability to freely legislate and implement regulations in given public policy domains. In March 2013, an economic assessment by the European estimates that such a comprehensive agreement would result in GDP growth of 68—119 billion euros for the European Union by 2027 and GDP growth of 50—95 billion euros about 53.
