Christian Reconstructionism, also known as theonomy

Recent scholarship This section requires. Confucianism is often seen as a philosophy and not a religion, but it is included here as a basis for law as a means of social control and reinforcing roles, similar in some ways to ancient Roman law.

Religious Perspectives on Business Ethics

Certain animals, considered unclean, are not to be eaten see Deuteronomy 14:3-21. I agree that the Reconstructionist movement has certain tendencies which are dangerous.

Committee on Jewish Law and Standards

Entirely apart from the view that theology is needed for the foundation of ethics is the view of many Christian ethicists that scripture reveals at least some of the content of ethics. The aim of Buddhist ethical behaviour is to maintain a good Karma.
