But, people ceremoniously line up for the ones filled with ham or eggplant, too.

LUINI, Milan

In 1531 he returned to the Saronno sanctuary to complete other frescoes. In Renaissance Italy, celebrated altarpieces were replicated by artists for private clients and churches.

Bernardino Luini

He was not subtle or profound, his works were not archaic, as were those of Foppa and , nor , as those of Bramantino, although from all three men he doubtless derived impressions. This was about 67% of all the recorded Luini's in the USA. Luini was a great painter of religious images, including frescoes, wood panels, large altarpieces, and small devotional works for the home.
