The Catholic Family Handbook

The very young child measures good and bad in terms of his own pleasure and pain, and since most of his experiences are still on a physical level, physical punishment has its place. It is best to discourage this conduct in a matter-of-fact way, much as you might prevent him from picking his nose. The seven-year-old normally is sufficiently developed to take responsibility before God for his actions.

The Catholic Family Handbook

Brothers and sisters of an exceptional child may also need special attention.

Delinquency and Puberty

Separating the good from the bad in television, movies, radio programs, books and magazines. God makes each one of us different; our nervous systems may run from extremes of restlessness to extremes of placidity.

The Catholic Family Handbook

Some mothers, when their child receives low grades, appear at school to determine, not what is wrong with him, but what is wrong with the teachers. Don't be a stern policeman over your child's tastes! Such a father does more harm than good; his children either become submissive before everyone, or become so rebellious against authority that they cannot lead normal lives as law-abiding citizens. Reasons why more married women than single women now hold jobs.

A successful lawyer prides himself upon his intellect and once hoped that his son would achieve great scholastic success. He must be taught in a calm way, however, that he must not take things which do not belong to him.

From you he should learn to accept his responsibility toward Church, country and family. He is also ready to learn of his Guardian Angel; many childish fears can be removed if he knows that his Guardian Angel always watches over him, and he will feel secure in new experiences when he knows that he has a protector. It will do so if you establish good habits of living which enable him to fulfill his obligations as a matter of course.

The newborn babe needs food and shelter, of course. In order for you to understand what objectives you should strive for as a parent, you should first realize that your Catholic family symbolizes in miniature the Mystical Body of Christ.
