The Trinidad Plan

Informe Especial: 1960 MAR 27, 1960: Following a tour of Latin America by Artíme to drum up support for MRR, Rafael Rivas-Vasquez writes him a letter on the status of the movement. Weapons arrived late in September, along with a shadowy staff that included Eastern Europeans, Mexicans, Chinese, and even a Filipino.

Bay of Pigs (April 17, 1961)

The story reports that the Justice and State departments are unhappy about this violation of the Neutrality Act and are pressuring President Eisenhower to move all such CIA training operations; and that the exiles are to be sent into Cuba to wage guerrilla war against Castro.

Bay of Pigs (April 17, 1961)

It attributed the defeat to lack of early realization of the impossibility of success by covert means, to inadequate aircraft, to limitations on armaments, pilots, and air attacks set to attempt plausible deniability — and, ultimately, to loss of important ships and lack of ammunition. Informe Especial: 1960 SEP 18, 1960: Fidel Castro arrives at Idlewild airport for a visit to the United Nations.

Milestones: 1961

The Board finds that the causes of the ammunition shortage lay deeper in the plans and organization of this operation and the attitude toward it on the part of government officials. When a group of aviators accused of bombing a village was found not guilty, he ordered a retrial, in which they were instead found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Milestones: 1961

The Brilliant Disaster: JFK, Castro, and America's Doomed Invasion of Cuba's Bay of Pigs. Neither San Román at Blue Beach nor Erneido Oliva at Red Beach could communicate as all of the radios had been soaked in the water during the landings.

Bay of Pigs

Airdrops from four C-54s and 2 C-46s had only limited success in landing more ammunition. In spite of heavy fighting, casualties appear to be few among the invaders. Agency Deputy Director Charles Cabell made the same argument.

Bay of Pigs

Augmented, upon learning of the reports, requests that studies be undertaken so the United States will be prepared for such a contingency. The 5412 Group issued no formal approval but encouraged the CIA to proceed. Further statements, detailed discussions, are not to conceal responsibility because I'm the responsible officer of the Government.
