An Instant In The Wind by Andre Brink

It describes a white woman and a runaway slave walking for a whole year from northern party of South Africa back to Cape Town, after a disastrous exploration of the woman's husband an explorer from Northern Europe, who had no idea what he was getting into in the south africa jungle. And then Erik Larssen disappeared without trace, leaving Elisabeth in the wilderness alone with a man she regarded as a savage, a runaway slave of a different race.

Brink vividly describes the country through which they must travel. The path is long, unclear and dangerous.

An Instant In The Wind by Andre Brink

She is terrified of him, and he is deeply suspicious, even afraid of her.

Home

An Instant I The Wind. Elisabeth Louw is a young woman of mixed Dutch and French parentage who was brought up in Cape Town. At first, there is suspicion, distrust; the white woman attempts to treat him as a slave, and the black man seethes and refuses to return to that role.

An Instant In The Wind by Andre Brink

The husband is considerably older than the wife and their communication does not run deep, their mutual understanding even shallower.

An Instant In The Wind by Andre Brink

And so when Larsson sets off on his desired expedition of intended discovery to the interior beyond the Cape, he must organise the transport and bearing of much chattel, whose inventory is known to include his wife. Erik is a bearded and rather myopic pursuer of facts.
