Iambic Pentameter

The meter of a poem is a measure of rhythm, or the pattern of the beats.

Shakespearean sonnets are written in iambic pentameter, which means that each line contains five metrical feet with an unstressed-stressed pattern.

A metrical foot is a unit of rhythmic measure that contains two syllables. For example, the word monotonous has four syllables, or two metrical feet.

The syllabic pattern of iambic pentameter is composed of iambs, which are sets of unstressed and stressed syllables. For example, the word risen is iambic because the stress is placed on the second syllable.
