

Informal sector and household reproduction in Papua New Guinea

National Research Institute - The 'sleeping giant' at the heart of PNG's economy

Description: -

- Bogotá (Colombia) -- Description and travel.
- Bogota (Colombia) -- History.
- Papua New Guinea -- Economic conditions
- Informal sector (Economics) -- Papua New Guinea
- Households -- Economic aspects -- Papua New Guinea
- informal sector and household reproduction in Papua New Guinea
- Academia Colombiana de Historia. Biblioteca Eduardo Santos, v. 17
- NRI discussion paper -- no. 71.informal sector and household reproduction in Papua New Guinea
- Notes: Includes bibliographical references (p. 34-36)
- This edition was published in 1993

Filesize: 17.49 MB

Tags: #The #'sleeping #giant' #at #the #heart #of #PNG's #economy

Informal jobs sector both a blessing and curse in Southeast Asia

Briefly, while we should welcome the extent to which the Planning department embraces informal economic activities in its planning framework, we should be worried at the shallowness of its understanding of these activities.

Publications

They are also more likely to experience labour exploitation and abuse, including unsafe work conditions or harassment, forced overtime, or termination without notice. Unless efforts are made to deal with such activities, economic indicators are under estimated. Labour rights are human rights, and human rights are universal.

The Bugiau Community at Eight

There has been some expansion of houses onto larger plots on steep slopes above older squatter settlements in an effort to secure land for cultivation. Despite being a critical element for national growth, for many years the informal economy has received little to no government support.

Report says PNG's has been hit

The population in urban areas, who are for the most part removed from their traditional gardens, buy food from markets, street sellers, and supermarkets.

Ch06

As low-income gardeners have a comparative advantage in the Port Moresby vegetable and fruit market, they are also able to multiply the energy value of home-grown food by selling and using the cash to purchase cheaper imported foods. One wonders what education activity will exist for the NCDC inspectors armed with iron bars around the proposed reforms, if they eventuate. Much of Indonesia's resilience is down to the informal sector absorbing a new generation of workers as well as those laid off from factories, mines and plantations.

Related Books

- Du héros païen au saint chrétien - actes du colloque organisé par le Centre d'Analyse des Rhétoriques
- Second book of the Royal Enfield
- Collected poems \(1914-1947\)
- Gnosis
- Fronte popolare in Francia, 1934-1938