B-boying is a form of Afro-diasporic competitive dance that developed in the Bronx, NY in the early 1970s. His claim is especially true for hip-hoppers in the academy: intellectuals who love hip-hop's core values but cannot support the violence, degradation, and sexism meted out daily in lyrics, videos, and media; teachers who seek to pass on the positive aspects of the culture but struggle to help students see and hear beyond BeT, MTV, and Clear Channel; scholars who apply rigorous methodology to their study of hip-hop culture but face resistance to their work because hip-hop is not taken seriously enough. Six spots are earned through six regional qualifying tournaments.
