P. Terentius Afer (Terence), Phormio, or The Scheming Parasite, act prologue, scene 0

Is it humane to do or to devise this? The commentaries accompany readily available translations, and the series should be of value to students of Classical Civilization Studies for GCSE and A Level and at university. Themes of retrieved 'lost children', mischievous slaves, and sons yearning for women their social class cannot permit them to marry are abundant here. How I dread what you are coming to! The very person I wanted to find.

Adelphoe

That is a hard blow. Listen; in a few words you shall learn both what I want of you, and what you seek to know. In this way, students can continue to develop the connection between character and setting that is established in the pre-reading activity.

Μάθημα: Ερμηνευτικές Προσεγγίσεις στη Ρωμαϊκή Κωμωδία

Look, here he is; I see him just coming out. He says that you are making too sparing preparations. Ennius was the oldest of these three Poets.

Greek & Roman

But do you answer me this, what business had you there? Board of Education: A civil rights milestone and its troubled legacy. I wish to; restore me to the position in which you found me.

During the absence of Thraso, Thais becomes acquainted with Phasdrus, an Athenian youth, the son of Laches; she also discovers from Chremes, who lives near, that Pamphila, her former companion, is his sister. Have you but just arrived? I pray the Gods that he may survive, since the father himself is of a good disposition, and since he has hesitated to do an injustice to this most excellent young woman.
