While the Convention on Fishing and Conservation of the Living Resources of the High Seas CFCLR dedicatedly deals with conservation and management of marine fisheries, other conventions also have some provisions pertaining to fisheries regulation.

An Introduction to International Fisheries Law Research

Pollution of the sea from other sources is regulated by several regional treaties, most of which have been adopted under the aegis of the. It mandated that key articles, including those on limitation of seabed production and mandatory technology transfer, would not be applied, that the United States, if it became a member, would be guaranteed a seat on the Council of the International Seabed Authority, and finally, that voting would be done in groups, with each group able to block decisions on substantive matters.
