Given the current circumstances, though, they will hardly find favour with foundries, even if they bid high. The Civil Service Exam system started under the Han Dynasty and reemerged under the Tang and Song. Third, while some types of standards may be sector specific, others may be generic, but vary in different geographical and institutional contexts.

Under certain specific conditions, the state can exert a material influence and can ensure that there are positive national and local benefits. Japan, Korea, and Vietnam all paid China in money, food, materials, and even workers rather than have to go to war with the superpower! Korea is arguably the most stable in this period being ruled by the Goryeo.
