Instead of giving them new clothes to dress up and celebrate, parents are dressing up their children to be buried.

Children and war: risk, resilience, and recovery

The work focuses on how war affects psychological development in children; the need for personal attachment, for emotional stability, and for permanency of educational influence. Australia was also considered after the Swedish government declined to accept these people; the Norwegian government later shelved such proposals. The German weekly described this action as an historical milestone.
