Economic Evaluation in Education

In communities where girls received livelihoods training in entrepreneurship, mobile phone repair, photography, and basic first aid, girls were 23% less likely to be married as children at endline than girls in the control communities. Skills upgrading of the existing labor force, particularly new entrants, is crucial to address the skills shortage in the short to medium term. Studies were quality assessed using a tool developed specifically for assessing risk of bias in experimental and quasi-experimental designs based on statistical methods Hombrados and Waddington.

Economic Empowerment
