The Executioner as Tabloid Author

Violence against children in any form was hard enough for Meister Frantz to forgive; violence against one's own flesh and blood remained utterly incomprehensible and

The AHA was founded in 1884 and chartered by Congress in 1889 to serve the interests of the entire discipline of history. Another interpretation might suggest a certain emotional callousness, or at least opaqueness, is to be expected in a veteran executioner. Frantz Schmid's lifetime corresponded to the golden era of this particular genre, which had already begun to decline by the time of his 1618 retirement.

It contains a wealth of material on, and insight into, early modern marginal groups, the poor in general, and perceptions of these groups.

Organised Crime

Warfare and Banditry -- 3. As in the popular press, details about young victims, their wounds, and their suffering all lend emotional resonance to acts of violence - again more explicitly than any other accounts in the journal. The journal's very first entry of more than three lines is description of three murders by Kloss Renkhart, including a home invasion where Renkhart killed a miller, raped his widow and her maid, then forced them both to fry and eat an egg on the body of the woman's murdered husband.
