We are engaged on the issue and committed to looking at options that support our full range of digital offerings to the EU market. This is because the abbreviations are based on older forms of each word—ounce comes from the Italian word onza, and pound from the Roman word libra. It would sound awkward and affected to precede any of them with the article.

List of Common Acronyms

Phase I, previously published as ACRP Web-Only Document 28, gathered information to analyze current and future airport job requirements and identify mission-critical airport occupations; assess the potential of current airport education, training, and resources to address workforce gaps; and project airport workforce capacity needs over the next 5 to 10 years. NASA, on the other hand, is an acronym because even though it is also made up of the first letters of the department name National Aeronautics and Space Administration , it is pronounced as a word, NASA, and not by spelling out the letters N, A, S, A.
