History Ireland

Despite the dispersal of Gaelic to North America and to Australasia , the 17th through 19th centuries witnessed a tremendous erosion of Gaelic. However, the lack of archaeological or place name evidence for a migration or invasion has caused this traditional view to fall out of favor.

Gaelic-speaking pupils were not taught their own language in school until the early 1800s, first by schools operated by the Gaelic Society and later in SSPCK and parochial schools. A list of this year's lectures, together with other events hosted by the Department, can be found here: For more information on each series of lectures please click on the individual links below. The marriage that took place in Ireland between King Eochaide Scarlet Lion of Zarah and Tea Tephi Golden Lion of Pharez in 583 BC brought a historical new beginning.

History Ireland

Zarah was not given full credit for his remarkable accomplishments in history like his brother Pharez and his Hebrew history tree.

Preface - Fiona Edmonds and Paul Russell Cloud-Cuckoo Land? Prerequisite: SMC242Y1 An Introduction to Scots Gaelic 52L, 26T This course is intended to provide a reading and spoken knowledge of Scots Gaelic. It adds significantly to our understanding of Celtic Christianity, and of those early Welsh texts, while making many of the latter available in English for the first time.
