DEVELOPMENT STUDIES / INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Higher taxes on alcohol are associated with less drinking among 16- to 21-year olds Grossman et al. We selected the key actors for the interviews based on certain specific characteristics: - Staff profile: senior clinicians, senior nurses, clinicians, nurses, managers, CIO, in house IT staff clinicians, nurses, General Director, Medical Director, CIO - The number of years working at the organization: before the adoption of the EMR system at the very least, after the adoption of the EMR system.

Integrating Disability Studies Pedagogy in Teacher Education

Teacher preparation for inclusive and critical special education. It does not conceive of itself as a praxis, a theory which seeks to transform the reality of unequal power relations. As the interviews brought to light, people within the wards started to offer themselves as volunteers to be involved at different level and covering different roles in the mobilization of the new system within the hospital.

STEAM in practice and research: An integrative literature review

Disruption of the medicalization of disability in schools, and cultivating and sustaining inclusive education, necessitates that teacher candidates be better prepared to navigate the professional context of resistance. Their revised curricula included a critical history of the medical model in which teacher candidates were introduced to eugenics and intelligence testing by exploring a website that makes connections between past and present eugenic ideas.

Courses in Anthropology

The views of corporate managers on the current state of, and future prospects for, social reporting in Bangladesh: an engagement-based study.

Negotiation Education: An Institutional Approach

Minorities and women were appointed as counselors and college recruiters.

STEAM in practice and research: An integrative literature review

Theories regarding the collective such as health care teams or other aggregate levels are relevant in implementation science, e.

Public policy

The participants in this culture are, in some form, almost of necessity the entire population, which is confronted daily by sports, willingly or not. Environmental science provides a basic understanding of the impacts of human activities on the environment. For example, since 1974 the median income of black American has declined from 63 percent of that for white Americans, to 55 percent.
