ERIC

Pence is provost at Pacific Lutheran University and current chair of the American Conference of Academic Deans. The following issues are most often raised as needing attention: 1 roles and responsibilities of chairs, 2 the chair as leader, 3 the political influences on the chair and the use of power, 4 the chair's responsibility for evaluation and development of faculty, 5 the influence of institutional type and specific discipline on the chair, and 6 challenges facing chairs in the 1990s and beyond.

Leadership Academy

A deep and unexplored connection exists between the practice of liberal education and the practice of academic leadership, and the key to understanding that connection is embedded in the idea of vocation. As usual, leadership begins by example.

Thus, the chair must learn to cope readily with the demands of being in the middle, with responsibilities to both faculty and administration.

The Department Chair: New Roles, Responsibilities and Challenges. ERIC Digest.

Evaluation, the process of making judgments about performance, is one of the most powerful opportunities for developing quality available to a chair.

Deans' Dilemmas: Practicing Academic Leadership

Buller is dean of the Harriet L. Thomas More Smith, PhD Dr. The historic affiliation between the two organizations continues.

Deans' Dilemmas: Practicing Academic Leadership

You need practical and effective strategies, interactive learning, and one-on-one engagement with leaders who have successfully powered through the obstacles you are currently facing. Even in searches where this outcome seems unlikely, external applicants may emerge from the process with hard feelings toward the college or university; if the person then shares those sentiments with others, there could be very undesirable consequences with potential students or donors, and the impact may be far greater than on the search alone. While matters of collegiality can never be addressed solely through the process of faculty evaluation, periodic reviews do provide administrators with an opportunity to deal with clear breaches of professional conduct, recommend alternative behaviors for the future, and underscore the significance of treating one another with respect and mutual support.

Then they look for someone to blame. Due to the ongoing, ever-changing efforts to halt the advancement of COVID-19, we are pleased to provide this hybrid event structure to our community.

ERIC

The chair must recognize how institutional type, history, and culture, model of governance, and discipline can influence what is expected of him or her, in turn determining the most effective strategies to use.
